About the Author

In his youth, Shakya Kasi spent years studying within a privileged esoteric circle, and after much learning and self-development, he began teaching meditation at Monash University in Melbourne and dedicating himself to a study in the fields of love and magnetism. After being criticized for claiming to have found the laws of true love, he decided to take his material elsewhere, teaching in Bali, Amsterdam, Lisbon, and New York. His ease with foreign languages has enabled him to go further than others and access ancient texts that have never been translated into English. Excerpts from these texts have been included in his debut book and are appearing for the first time.
